Column One David Courtney

THE U.N. Disarmament Commission comes together today. It has until June to work out a compromise between the Western and the Russian proposals. We ought to rejoice. But there is a morbid feeling abroad that the nations to start carving back, and that such events as the Disarmament Commission are in any case little more than a disguise for propaganda; on the one hand a Soviet mask; on the other a Western attempt to get at the mask and tear it off, if for no better reason than to show that the persistent Russian initiative for peace is a wicked pretence and that Mr. Butler and Mr. Pinay must go about blotting their brows and straining their eyes in an effort to square the whirling budgetary circle.

THE Disarmament Commission begins in an atmosphere of cynicism there is, nevertheless, a vague hope in some quarters that the occasion may lead to a partial agreement of one kind or another. No one any longer expects a single conference to bring about the miracle of world understanding. Mr. Churchill has from time to time hinted at comprehensive top-level talks in the style of Tahrir but seems now to have come round to Mr. Eden's plan for building up peace gradually, "agreement by agreement." The British Foreign Secretary has made it clear that the way to an East-West understanding lies in his view, through a series of settlements come to with patience and realism. "We might then advance through a period of lessening tension," he said in January, when his hopes seemed to dwell upon successive agreements about such matters as Korea, Austria, Germany and, possibly, but subsequent to the other three—disarmament itself.

THE gradual method proposed by Mr. Eden was seized upon hungrily in other Western European capitals; and it has already been suggested by one Paris newspaper that conferences on separate problems might be held simultaneously, so that progress in one instance might create the mood for progress in another.

THERE are, of course, serious stages in the way of even piecemeal settlement, which are a consequence less of the intrinsic problems than of the efforts each problem has had already on national policies and public opinion. Cautious observers have begun pointing out that the course of events in Korea and Indo-China and the fact that this is Presidential election year in the United States must bring down the chances of any realistic agreement on matters profoundly affecting Western security plans.

WHAT, therefore, with public cynicism, electoral pressures in the United States, and the lack of any confidence in Soviet intentions, the U.N. Disarmament Commission is likely to feel discouraged from the start. Neither Eisenhower in Britain nor Truman in France nor De Gaulle in Belgium behind the Iron Curtain, nor any other Western leader, can at this stage influence the rulers of the world to halt their mad race. But that is no reason for giving up the attempt; and every reason for welcoming even a Disarmament Commission that has one purpose to succeed.

$76m. Grant For Israel Asked

WASHINGTON, Thursday.—President Truman's $760m. Mutual Security Programme, which lists $180m. for the Middle East, provides $76m. for Jewish refugees in Israel and $88m. for Palestine Arab refugees. Mr. Averell Harriman, Mutual Security Director, revealed today in an address to Congress.

The distribution of the remaining $58m. of the M.E. appropriation request was not disclosed.

Mr. Harriman was the first of the top State Department officials who testified today before a congressional committee on foreign aid.

Mr. Truman had asked for $5,500m. in "direct military aid" for Europe, Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America. The request for "defence supporting" or economic aid was for $1,100m. for Western Europe. Another $638 in outright economic and Point Four technical assistance would go mostly to Asiatic countries.

Mr. Harriman, Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Secretary of Defence Robert Lovett and General Omar Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, all warned the committee today of the dangers inherent in any reduction in the programme. Mr. Harriman said such cuts "would gravely impair our own security" and would be "a major victory for the Soviet leaders in the Kremlin."

He said that the $750m. was earmarked to build up the planned 30 division army of the Atlantic pact countries. He said that the $1,100m. was for economic aid in raw materials and machinery for Europe generally.

Mr. Acheson said the Congress should be concerned with Western Europe's need for aid. He said that the $1,100m. was for economic aid in raw materials and machinery for Europe generally.

Mr. Bradley said the committee should be concerned with Western Europe's need for aid. He said that the $1,100m. was for economic aid in raw materials and machinery for Europe generally.

Sharett, de Gasperi to Discuss Economics and Compensation

ROME, Thursday (INA).—Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett, who is expected here on March 17, will discuss economic questions with Premier Alcide de Gasperi the following day.

Preliminary talks are at present, under way between officials of the Italian Foreign Ministry and the Israel Legation concerning the release of Italian property still frozen in Israel and the compensation to Israel for property seized during the war by the fascist regime in Trieste from Jewish refugees fleeing Europe. Israel would like to obtain compensation equal to that granted to countries which signed the peace treaty.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said here today, "We are collecting data on the total value of Italian property frozen in Israel and of Jewish property frozen in Trieste during the war." The view of the Ministry is that it would be highly desirable to reach a global settlement on both issues.

Israel is at present making purchases on the Italian market, and is seeking to establish a bilateral commercial relationship. Italy, however, does not buy from Israel and the feeling here is that such a relationship is premature because Israel does not as yet export goods needed by this country. The Italian Government would rather grant pre-

Cuban Ex-President Arrives in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Thursday (UP).—Cuban President Fulgencio Batista arrived here today from Havana, where he left General Batista in unchallenged control. The ex-president said: "I have not returned and I do not intend to. I left my country under pressure of force. He was a Communist. He was a Communist. He was a Communist."

Draft Bill of Status For Agency Agreed

The problem of according legal status to the Zionist Movement in Israel continued to dominate the meetings of the Jewish-Agency Executive in Jerusalem yesterday.

Two meetings had been held on the matter between Prime Minister Ben Gurion and Dr. Nahum Goldmann, Co-Chairman of the Agency. Dr. Goldmann notified the Prime Minister that the Executive had adopted "in principle" a proposed draft of a "Bill of Status," which had followed Government-Agency negotiations. The discussions between Dr. Goldmann and Mr. Ben Gurion concerned a number of details still to be worked out before the final proposal can be presented to the Knesset for approval.

Bond Drive Relations. Dr. Goldmann reported yesterday on his talks on Wednesday with the Prime Minister and the Minister of Finance on relations between the Bond Drive and the United Jewish Appeal. It was decided that "everything possible would be done to coordinate the timing of the drives in the U.S."

The final meeting of the Executive is scheduled for Monday when Mr. E. Dobkin will submit a report on youth and health affairs. Any new developments on the question of status will also be brought up. The meeting will be held without Dr. Goldmann, Dr. Israel Goldstein, and Mr. E. Brody, who left yesterday for Europe.

At yesterday's session the Executive also decided to "assign certain tasks and authority" to Zionist organizations abroad in an effort to strengthen these bodies. A special committee will draw up the final text of this decision.

The Executive affirmed the policy of selectivity in immigration from those countries where it is possible.

It was also decided to take the necessary measures to start the construction of housing projects for exiles and refugees from abroad who will be invited to Israel. The Government and Jewish organizations will be asked to make the scheme.

Proposals to govern land-raising activities in Israel were also discussed. The Government and Jewish organizations will be asked to make the scheme.

Committee Discusses German Debts

LONDON, Thursday (Reuter).—Officials discussing Germany's external debts held further committee talks here today to prepare for tomorrow's plenary session of the debts settlement conference here.

Some 150 representatives of 28 nations are then expected to hear first results of the complicated negotiations covering some $8,000m. which began on February 25.

This opening phase is understood to have been concerned mainly with the larger debts, including the pre-war Dawes and Young loans, corporate bonds and interwar debts. The Government is directing the talks believing that early agreement on such debts would greatly facilitate an overall settlement.

The committee intends that a series of specific settlement terms should be agreed from during the talks between the creditors and debtors. These would then be incorporated in a global governmental agreement stating that the German Federal Government will not make or incur foreign debts except to persons or institutions participating in the settlement.

Soviet Delegate Urges Trade to End Tension

GENEVA, Thursday (Reuter).—The Soviet delegate, Mr. G. P. Arkharov, called for East-West European trade talks next autumn when he addressed the U.N. Economic Commission for Europe here today. He said such consultations would be the simplest solution to the East-West trade problem and would have great political and economic significance.

"They would show that countries are not only prepared to increase trade but also to develop friendly relations and thus to reduce world tension," he added.

Volte-Face By Communists In Korea Talks

PANMUNJOM, Thursday.—The Communists in an abrupt about-face today insisted anew on a Korean armistice broad enough in scope to outlaw a possible U.S. blockade of China or Formosa.

The new attitude on the part of the Communist truce negotiators came to light during an interpreters' session at the lowest level of the negotiations. Communist interpreters working over an agreement tentatively reached on truce supervision repudiated an earlier assurance that they would drop all attempts to stretch the scope of the armistice.

They originally opposed including the word "Korea" in a paragraph permitting a naval blockade of the war-torn peninsula. Such a deletion would have had the effect of extending the blockade to the coasts of China or Formosa if desired by either party. Yesterday they withdrew their opposition. Today, however, the interpreters said they could not include "Korea" in the final phrasing of the paragraph, and added they had been instructed the term should be turned back to the Staff of States.

In the truce talks, no progress was made and U.N. opinion hardened that the Communists were intending to maintain a stalemate.

U.S. ASKS PROBE

GENEVA, Thursday (Reuter).—The U.S. has asked the International Committee of the Red Cross to investigate Communist allegations that U.S. forces in Korea are using bacteriological weapons, it was learned here today.

The headquarters of the Committee here said it had been asked to make investigations "with the object of determining the real causes, the nature and the extent of the epidemics which are stated to have occurred in North Korea."

The Committee has called U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, North Korean Premier General Kim Il Sung, and General Pyng Te-hual, C-in-C. of the Chinese volunteers, stating that with the approval of an impartial commission consisting of Swiss scientists and from states not taking part in the fighting would be set up to investigate the allegations.

C-o-l Allowances Rise to IL16

TEL AVIV, Thursday.—An increase of IL10,400 in monthly cost-of-living allowances was fixed today by the Manufacturers' Association and the Histadrut in an extraordinary agreement. The wage adjustment reflects a 13 point rise in the official index in January and February (See Index Report on Page 2).

The last agreement signed on January 16, providing for an allowance of IL5,600, was due to expire on April 15, but the adjustment was advanced one month in view of the big jump in prices arising from the recent economic reforms. The C.o.L. allowance will thus rise to IL16.

There will be discussions within a month on the reform of the periodical agreements. The Histadrut wants the adjustments more frequently than once in three months. Under another agreement between the Manufacturers' Association and the Histadrut the pay of a skilled worker in tanneries will be IL2,500 daily, while the lowest daily pay in the industry will be IL2,400 for an unskilled man and IL2,350 for an unskilled woman worker.

Stocks Uncovered

Large quantities of goods which were not declared in the recent stock check were frozen, and criminal files were opened against the owners by the Ministry of Commerce's Control Section, it was announced officially yesterday.

The goods included 164 tons of steel, 1,000 meters of cloth, 250 pairs of shoes, 4,000 pairs of shoes, and 6,000 pairs of shoes.

Prudhomme Reviews Persian Oil Talks

TEHRAN, Thursday (Reuter).—Mr. Victor Prudhomme, chief of the International Bank's oil mission, today reviewed the results of his discussions with the Persian Government when he met U.S. Ambassador Loy Henderson and the British Charge d'Affaires George Middleton, it was learned here.

After the meeting it was reported that Mr. Prudhomme was planning to leave Tehran early next week to report to the International Bank at Washington. These reports were "confirmed" by others which said he was going to stay here until the final result from the talks emerged.

Mr. Prudhomme yesterday afternoon visited Court Minister Hussein Ala, and last night Mr. Prudhomme and his colleagues conferred with the Persian Oil Sub-committee.

Three main differences still persist between the Persian and World Bank negotiators: setting the oil share of Government, nationalization, and the employment of foreign technicians. Bankers added no agreement had been reached though talks were going on in a spirit of goodwill.

Accord Nears On Bonn Sovereignty

BONN, Thursday (UP).—The three Western powers and Western Germany were today close to an agreement which would grant the latter almost complete sovereignty and put German soldiers into uniform under General Dwight Eisenhower.

The High Commissioners of the U.S., Britain and France and Chancellor Adenauer announced they were near agreement of a "general contract" replacing the occupation statutes.

The communiqué said negotiations would be concluded soon. All that remained was to "formulate appropriate wording."

The agreement would give Western Germany more of the sovereignty powers and under it Germany will create 12 divisions for the European Army which will be linked to the NATO forces.

Education Council Sets Its Tasks

An appeal for the improvement and direction of Israel's cultural life was made yesterday by Professor Ben-Zion Dinur, Minister of Education, at the first meeting of the Higher Council for Education and Culture in Jerusalem.

He called upon the members of the new Council to take the lead in the mobilization of the "people's full resources for increased, systematic cultural activity."

In the debate which followed, members agreed that cultural life in the country had fallen to a dangerously low level, but offered solutions which fell into line with the beliefs of various political parties. Some of these recommendations were: greater emphasis on the Jewish language, and less emphasis on political indoctrination.

It was decided to set up a number of committees to include those on adult education, teaching of Hebrew, and to stimulate public interest. A proposed charter, listing the aims and powers of the Council, also was tabled.
